A symbol with meaning

By WILLIAM L. TRIMYER

A Symbol with Rich Meaning
[I Chron. 16:1-6]

Life is full of symbols which have special meaning. Many of our possessions become outward manifestations of something that is meaningful to us. A nice home, car and job are symbols of success. A framed degree is a symbol of many years of study and sacrifice. A cross worn around the neck identifies us in some way with the Christian faith. Our religious heritage is rich with symbols of faith.

The early Hebrews had symbols which constantly reminded them of God and His acts of deliverance. One such symbol was the ark of the covenant. The ark emerged as a divine command from God. Its purpose was to act as a meeting place between God and his people. It symbolized God's presence with His people and became for them a sign of hope. The ark contained the tablets of the law and was sprinkled with blood as a symbol of atonement for sin.

It is unfortunate that the ark later became an object of superstition. It was often carried into battle as a kind of "good luck" for victory. We do the same with the sign of the cross. Some people wear the cross for "good luck," thinking that it might protect them from danger or misfortune. After David became king the ark was brought to its final resting place in Jerusalem. There David composed a psalm in which he praised God for his marvelous works among the people of Israel.

David Seeks to Build a House
[II Sam. 7:1-7]

In those magnificant moments when we feel good about ourselves and how God has acted in our behalf, we may wish to memorialize such times with an offering in the form of money or service. We sometimes believe that we must somehow "pay" for God's blessings and gifts. One of the things I have learned in life is that gifts should be given and received without attached strings. A gift is a gift pure and simple. You don't (or shouldn't) have to pay for a gift.

David had a similar kind of elated feeling as he reflected upon the goodness of God. In response to that feeling he decided to build a house of worship in which to place the ark. Through a series of meetings with the prophet Nathan, David learned that his plan did not have divine approval. The time was not yet ripe for such an enterprise.

God's Plan for a House
[II Sam. 7:8-11]

The house God had in mind was uniquely different from the plan that David had. In fact, God was planning a house not necessarily made of wood and stone, but a "house" through which many divine events would emerge. And David was God's choice as the founder of this divine family dwelling.

It goes to show that the plans we sometimes make are not necessarily God's plans for us. And, too, the plans we make may not be as broad as the ones God may have in mind. You can't outguess God. Just when you think you have Him and your world sewed up, he emerges in another quite unexpected manner. It is both interesting and unsettling to be "surprised" by God!

David had been greatly blessed throughout his life. God had been at his side through many trying or deals. David became the first of a continuing line of rulers over israel.

The Future House to Come
[II Sam. 7: 12-16]

The prophet Nathan delivered the message that his notion to build a house of worship was not in line with the divine plan of God. But Nathan also spoke of the future when David would indeed build a Temple to God. Although David would not be directly involved in the building, his son Solomon would see the project through. Through the rulers of Israel God would eventually bring about a great revelation and covenant in the Person of Christ. Throughout the history of Israel God was weaving a divine thread that would culminate in him whose "kingdom there shall be no end."

Pastor Speaks

Make today count

By CLARENCE H. DAVIS, Pastor
New Hope Baptist Church

CANCER is a word that strikes fear in the very soul of most people! Orville Kelly was an easy going sort of person until he found out that he had "terminal cancer." After many tests and treatments, Orville Kelly decided that he was just going to have to take it "one day at a time." He formed an organization and named it "MAKE TODAY COUNT". Mr. Kelly and others terminally ill with cancer, these people got together and established chapters all across the United States. They developed the following helpful attitudes for terminally ill persons and their families:

1. TALK about your illness. If it is cancer, call it cancer. Don't try to make life normal again by trying to hide what is wrong.

2. ACCEPT death as a part of life. It is.

3. CONSIDER each day as another day of life, a gift from God, to be enjoyed as fully as possible, rather than another day closer to death.

4. REALIZE that life is never going to be perfect. It wasn't before and it won't be now.

5. PRAY and don't be ashamed of being afraid. It isn't a sign of weakness, it will become your strength.

6. LEARN to live with your illness instead of considering yourself dying from it. We all are dying in some manner.

7. PUT your friends and relatives at ease yourself. If you don't want pity, don't ask for it.

8. MAKE all practical arrangements for funerals, will, etc. and make certain your family understands them.

9. SET new goals; realize your limitations. Sometimes the simple things of life become the most enjoyable.

10. DISCUSS problems with your family as they occur. Include the children, if possible. After all, your problem is not an individual one. They must be prepared to deal with issues too.

Editor:

While traveling through the State of Virgina, we had the "unexpected pleasure" of breaking down in Appomattox on August 13. We found the Village of Appomattox Courthouse to be the highlight of our trip and well worth the 3½ mile walk from our motel.

A special thanks goes out to Helen Talbert, a guide at the McLean House, for driving us back to our motel after our tour of the Village. Also a thank you to the gentleman who carried us and our luggage from the garage to the motel when we broke down (we didn't get his name). We found Mr. Baxter of the Lee-Grant motel and Mr. Pugh, Vice President of the Farmers National Bank to be most courteous and helpful.

We will be sure to recommend Appomattox Court House to all those we know who are planning a future vacation in Virgina.

Yours truly,
Marion Dempsey

Many people in Appomattox County have never been asked to assist in a political campaign, either through financial contributions or as a volunteer worker.

This is an open invitation to those wanting to assist in the campaign to elect Governor Ronald Reagan as President of the United States.

The campaign to elect Governor Reagan as President will not be easy as President Carter will use all the power of his office to aid his re-election. To defeat Mr. Carter will require a major effort, and the Appomattox County Republican Party needs your help. Volunteer workers and financial contributions are needed. Those willing to give their time and talent may call Appomattox County Republican Party at any one of the phone numbers listed below. Contributions to the local Reagan for President campaign can be sent payable to Appomattox County Republican Party, c/o P. O. Box 728, Appomattox, Virginia 24522.

Sincerely,
Mary Anne Lewis, Treasurer

We are planning an appreciation service for Mrs. Harris on Sunday, October 26, 1980. This will be an all day service with presentations at 3:00 p.m. We are asking the public and all of Mrs. Harris's former students to come out and join Mt. Shiloh Baptist Church on this day.

Scouts clean up

Members of Girl Scout Troop 336 kicked off a community service project to earn a badge by cleaning the grounds of Appomattox Elementary School last Tuesday. The girls were surprised to find four large bags of garbage littering the school grounds!

UDC holds first meeting of year

By TILDEN LEE

The Appomattox Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy met on Thursday September 17 at 7:30 p.m. at the Appomattox County Library. This was the first meeting of the year.

Mrs. Lucille Ferrell, historian, presented a program on Major General John Bankhead Magruder who was born in Port Royal on May 1, 1807.

John entered West Point in 1826. He graduated in 1830, 15th in a class of forty-two. He was one year behind Robert E. Lee and Joseph E. Johnson. Upon graduation as a 2nd lieutenant, he began his career with the United States Army. He was stationed at Fort McHenry in Baltimore and also on the coast of Maine. Later he was promoted to first lieutenant of the artillery and served in forts in Florida and Texas.

He was a handsome man, had a courtly manner, and earned the nickname of "Prince John".

For 15 years he served at scattered garrisons in the occupation of Texas, and in the Seminole War when he was promoted to lieutenant colonel. In 1866 he entered the service of the confederacy. He received the rank of colonel and was placed in command of troops on the Virginia peninsula.

On April 9, 1865 when Lee surrendered, the Confederacy was beginning to crumble and the Federals began arresting and imprisoning Confederate of ficials. Magruder refused to seek parole and fled to Mexico. He joined the army of Maximillan with the rank of Major General and served until the empire fell. He returned to the U. S. by way of Cuba, and travelled about the country lecturing on his Mexican War experiences. In 1869, when his financial resources were exhausted, Magruder returned to Houston, Texas. Broken in spirit and health and living in poverty, the once tall, dark, handsome man died on Feb. 18, 1871. Magruder was given a paupers funeral in Houston, but the citizens of Galveston transferred his remains to Galveston and his grave is marked by a magnificence tombstone, truly befitting the gallant John Bankhead Magruder.

The meeting was called to order by chapter president, Hazel Lee Martin.

Mrs. Louise Plunkett led the group in Pledge to the United States Flag.

Mrs. Lucille Ferrell led in salutes to the Virgnia Flag and Mrs. Mary Sue Gordon led in salutes to the Confederate Flag.
